Art Works

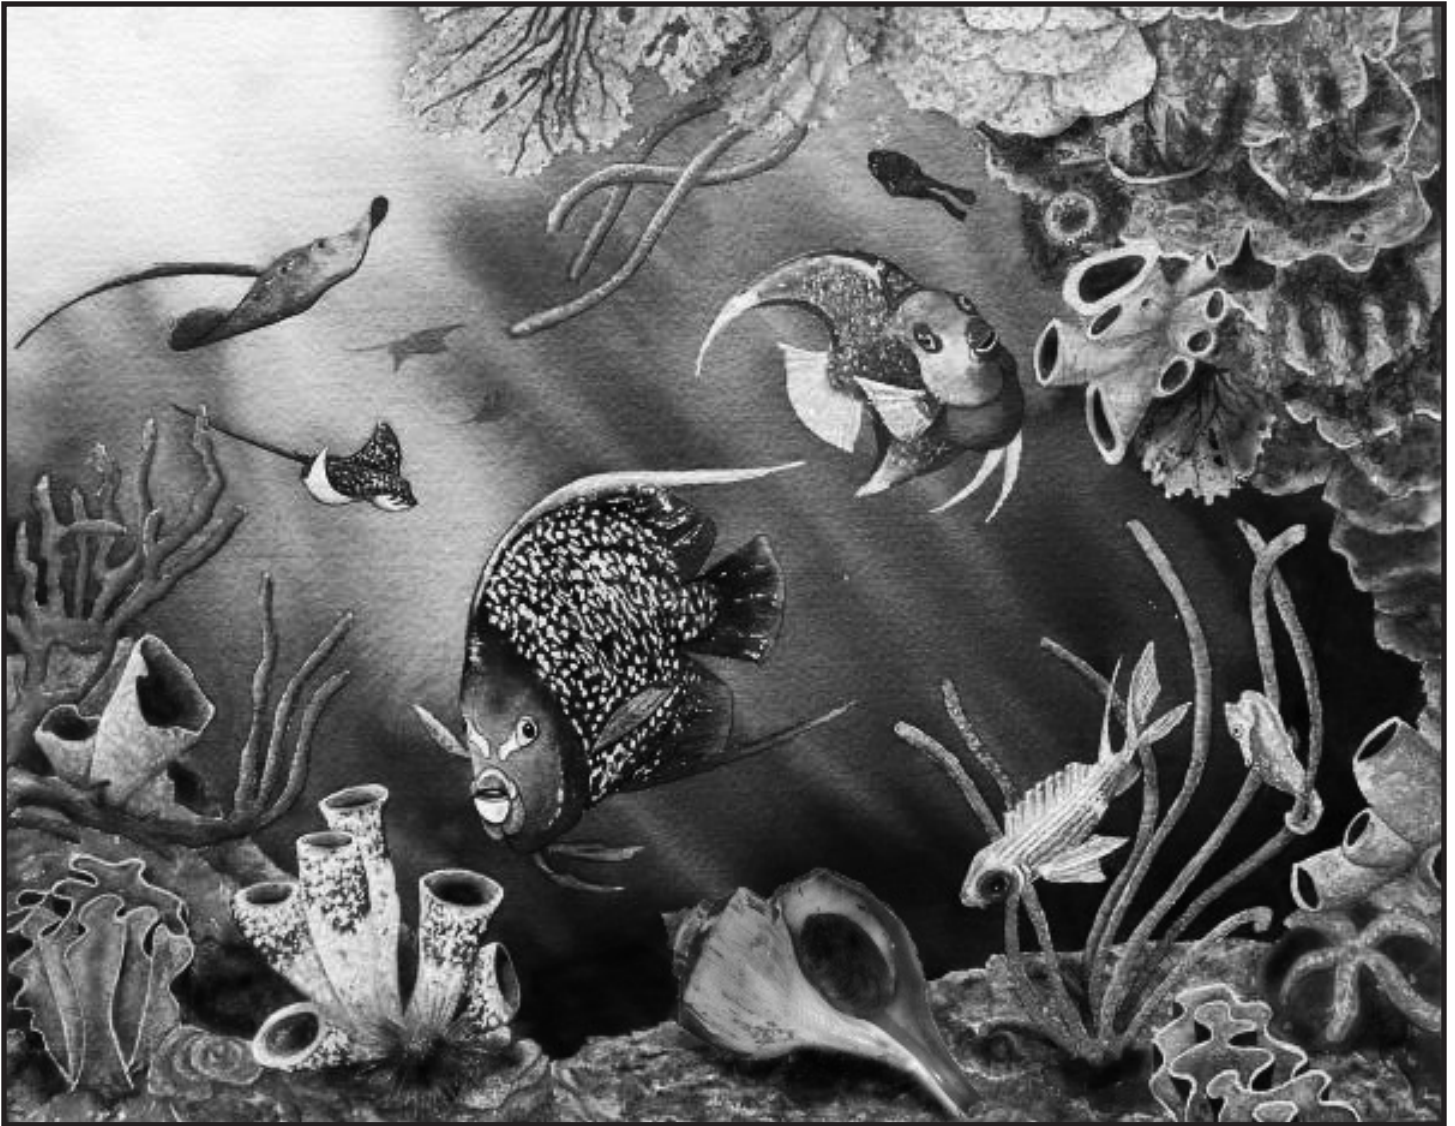

Below is a list of ideas for you to create your own personal artwork in response to the Johnson sculptures.

1. Write a poem about the first time you saw one of Seward Johnson's life-like sculptures
2. Take a photo of someone interacting with the sculpture
3. Create a drawing or painting that includes one or more of the sculptures
4. Choreograph a dance that is inspired by one of the sculptures
5. Role play, assuming the character of several of the sculptures and perform in front of a crowd

Artist Bruce Lindsay modeled his bronze sculpture Busycon Canalacalatum after undersea life.

Can you see other "sculptures" in this drawing? Abstract shapes and textures often come from "real" things like trees, animals, or even human beings. In the space below create a drawing of an abstract sculpture inspired by undersea life.
